Spring chickens are selling in Wilmington, N. C., at seventy cents per pair, so says the Review. We should think that a hennery or two would be profitable in the Cape Fear region.

There has been some complaint that stealing has been going on in the North-eastern part of the city for the past few weeks. Some vegetables were stolen from a garden on Sunday night. This ought to be looked after.

The musicians who have so kindly offered to furnish music for the Soldier's Fair have been practicing the past few days and from the way they play now we have no hesitancy in saying that we will have some good music on that oc-

Gentlemen of the light committee what are you going to do about lighting East Edenton street? This matter has often been called to the attention of the sommittee and sooner or later it will have to be lighted, so why not attend to it before the Baptist college begins

The foundation of Raleigh's prosperity is built upon capital, intelligence, su-perb location, health, accessibility and industry. Besides this, it has and offers as many other advantages and induce-ments as can be found in any place of our size in the entire South. One thing is certain, it is not built upon valuless promises, and fictitious valuations of

The question of the belt railroad is not dead by any means. It is still being talked about. Now, to come down to business, it is impossible to accomplish this by talk. Why you might talk about it for a century to come and it would do no good. The only possible way to reach the sentiment of our people is to hold a public meeting and consider the sire to make public acknowledgment.

The North Carolina Agricultural Society was organized in this city in 1852. Its first fair was held here in 1855. Fairs have been annually held ever since. Now, with all this age and pres-tage, we still insist on the Farmers' Alliance of North Carolina having a grand agricultural exhibit, such as has never been seen here before in this city the There will be a special orchestra for lanta, Ga.

Why not have a great sales day of lots in Raleighj If the proper effort were made, by having a well organized land and improvement company for the ben-efit of the city. Fix a reasonable price on the lots, have reduced rates on the railrands and invite the whole State to the sale. If this is done by the proper parties and in the proper way, it would result in great good to the city.

Electric Lights, Etc.

The preparations for the Fair, in Nash Square next week, are in active progress. The ladies' Memorial Association are busy soliciting aid, and are receiving prompt and liberal responses. The gentlemen on the committee are also hard at doubting Thomases who had bought work, making the preliminary arrangements.

The space under the avenue of elms in the square will be covered with awnings, and electric lights will give these long vistas a charmingly attractive appearance. There will also be a light in W. C.
